Pinchot Out for Governor

Philadelphia, Jan. 10.—Gifford Pinchot, twice Governor of Pennsylvania and three times a candidate for the United States Senate, today announced his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Just as his two previous successful primary campaigns, the former Governor will run again without the support of the Republican organization. Political observers are of the opinion that he has better than an even chance of winning the nomination.

In announcing his candidacy, the former Governor said: "My hat is in the ring. I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. I am in this race to the end."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1938, by The Baltimore Sun)

A Better Choice Likely

Washington, Jan. 8. WHILE undoubtedly the selection of Mr. Hugo Black has diminished the honor of appointment to the Supreme Court and lessened the distinction of service thereon, it has had one beneficial effect—it has made it impossible—or, at any rate, much more difficult—for Mr. Roosevelt to appoint another man of the same general type and caliber.

IN FILLING the new vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Sutherland, it seems certain that, though he may not raise the intellectual and character level of the court, he will not again lower it. In the first place, with perhaps one exception, there is not among the men listed as available any one open to quite the same kind of criticism that met Mr. Black in the second place, even if there were another such, and even though he were a Senator, his confirmation would not be easy. Senatorial courtesy was so badly abused in the case of Mr. Black that the chances are it will never be evoked again—certainly not in the case of a Supreme Court appointee—or to jam through a name to which real objection is offered.

IN THE third place, the state of mind of the President toward the court is not nearly so inflamed as it was last summer. At that time he was very angry. His effort to pack it with six men of his own selection had collapsed after a long and bitter fight, which had split the Democratic party and reacted very strongly against the

STEAL METAL MONEY BOX FROM CROYDON SHRINE

Thief or Thieves Believed Scared From Second Shrine of Little Flower

UNSCREW THE BOLTS

CROYDON, Jan. 10.—The third robbery reported with in a week in Croydon took place last evening, when a thief or thieves unscrewed the bolts which held the metal money box at the Shrine of the Little Flower on the property of St. Thomas Aquinas Church, and made a get-away with the box and contents, estimated at $8.

The amount in the box is merely an estimate, according to the Rev. Father Joseph Diamond, priest in charge of the parish, the sum being indicated by the number of candles burning in the Shrine.

An attempt had also been made to rob the second Shrine, but it is believed the thieves were alarmed while at work. The money box taken was from the upper Shrine.

The robbery occurred between five and nine last evening. The priest had visited the shrines at five and all was in order. He states that he returned at about 9:30, one-half hour before the usual closing time, and found the one box stolen, and also found that the box in the second Shrine had been tampered with. The Rev. Fr. Diamond informed Constable Joseph Seader, who was summoned, that he thought he saw someone running from the Shrine as he approached at 9:30.

The two shrines are located on the church property along Bristol Pike. Constable Seader is investigating the case.

Two Croydon Youths Who Admit Theft, Await Court

Two Croydon youths, arrested on Friday evening, on charges growing out of theft of money from the home of a former employer of one, were lodged in the Bucks County jail yesterday to await a court trial.

Those held are: Harry English, 18, Excelsior avenue, Croydon, charged with larceny, breaking and entering, robbery; Edward Choiniski, 16, Rosa avenue, Croydon, charged with carrying concealed deadly weapon and larceny.

Admitting their guilt at a hearing before justice of the peace James Laughlin, in the municipal building, Saturday evening, the two were taken to Doylestown jail yesterday by constable Joseph Seader, Bristol township.

The two were arrested by Seader, Friday evening, after he investigated the theft of approximately $25 from the home of Horace Beck, Fourth avenue and State Road, that evening. English was formerly employed by Beck, and had assisted him with some work at the Beck property Friday afternoon. When questioned English admitted entering the Beck home through a bedroom window, securing the money while Choiniski watched outside with a gun. When apprehended as they alighted from a car in Croydon late that evening, the English had $7.36 left. Each of the young men was wearing new shoes.

Represents Undistributed Surplus of 2% Tax on Foreign Fire Insurance

(Special to Courier)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—Auditor-General Warren R. Roberts today forwarded checks in the amount of $344,543 to the treasurers of the several cities, boroughs and township, for the use of the Firemen's Relief Fund Associations, representing the undistributed surplus of the two per cent tax on foreign fire insurance, left in the fund as of December 31, 1934.

The total payment to be made to the associations of Bucks County is $2,400.00.

Amounts going to the various associations of the county are:

Boroughs: Bristol, $287.24; Chalfont, $30.21; Doylestown, $441.04; Dublin, $3.98; Hulmeville, $19.79; Langhorne, $92.98; Langhorne Manor, $8.08; Morrisville, $194.52; New Hope, $26.55; Newtown, $106.90; Perkasie, $162.06; Quakertown, $224.28; Richlandtown, $11.51; Sellersville, $64.53; Silverdale, $10.58; Tullytown, $8.81; Yardley, $44.46.

"Firefly" is The Foremost Musical Film of Year

Foremost musical picture of the year, and probably in screen history, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of Rudolf Friml's operetta, "The Firefly," showing Monday and Tuesday at the Grand Theatre, has Jeanette MacDonald starred, and Allan Jones and Warren William in featured roles.

Here is screen artistry at its height. The dramatic story of Spain in the era when Napoleon was conquered at Vittoria by Wellington, provides a moving plot as vast and impressive as any that could be filmed. And, artistically, it provides a vehicle for the Friml score that thrilled the audience.

Jeanette MacDonald appears in her seventeenth musical triumph and it is unmistakably her finest. Allan Jones emerges as a star in his own right. Warren William performs with his accustomed artistry.

Filmed in the High Sierras and on thirty tremendous sets, the picture reveals a background of unsurpassed beauty.

WINTER SPORTS

No phenomenon of these times is more striking than the sudden re-discovery of Winter as a recreational asset. There appears to be a world-wide awakening to the delights of snow and ice sports, manifesting itself in this country, particularly in the Northeastern states.

As late as 10 years ago, when the last tourist, about the middle of October, had flitted from the hilly northern parts of New England and New York, the region was deserted except for its thinly scattered native population, and thereafter until the thaws of Spring became a half-forgotten place of cold, loneliness and snowy isolation.

Consider the present by contrast. In mid-December every inn, lodge, cabin or farm house that had entertained vacationists last summer reopened for the winter season. Schools of skiing, with instructors imported from Austria, Switzerland and Norway, have sprung up seemingly at every crossroad, replacing the golf schools of summer. Scores of special trains, in addition to the regular ones, run from the eastern cities to these resorts carrying passengers for a week-end two weeks, or a month among the snows. On a single day there have been 200,000 skiers pursuing their sport on the New Hampshire, Vermont and New York hills.

VALUE OF SIMPLE LIFE

A million-dollar life insurance policy sale is a feather in the cap of any salesman and a means of getting publicity for himself and his company, to say nothing of the man who bought the insurance. Lately, however, this type of policy has become less acceptable because of the toll of degenerative diseases aggravated by business pressure, it was reported by members of the Million-Dollar Round Table, made up of underwriters who are eligible for membership by virtue of writing a $1,000,000 or more a year.

In order to keep up production the members have sought a way to educate larger buyers of insurance to become acceptable prospects, and at the same time add to their own health and happiness and long life. The answer they have found is one that may serve as an admonition to anyone, whether it be the buyer of a $1,000,000 policy, one of $1,000 or none.

And that is, to live the simple life.

Specifically it was suggested that preventive medicine and simplicity of living be encouraged by all interested in prolonging life, not only the underwriters, but also medical, mental hygiene, financial and social groups.

The Federal budget for the next fiscal year is described as "full of question marks." Unfortunately most of the question marks are in red ink.

Mr. Roosevelt's "big navy" plans may run as high as ten or fifteen new cruisers. Isn't it about time for the Navy League to put on some kind of celebration?

Prices keep going up, which serves you right if you said: "Let Capital and Labor fight it out; it doesn't cost me anything."

The meanest man has been found. He buys his stamps direct from the Post Office to keep the druggists from getting a profit.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol June 29, 1876. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

To celebrate in a fitting manner the 100th birthday of the nation, services of an interesting character will be held on next Sunday, July 2nd, at the M. E. Church. The programme is as follows: 9.15 a. m., a short session devoted partly to addresses by whoever is inclined to participate; 10.30 a. m., sermon and communion service; 2.30 p. m., Sunday School session at which appropriate exercises by the scholars will take place; 7.45 p. m., praise meeting.

The display at the engine house on the fourth of July will undoubtedly be one of the finest ever witnessed in Bristol. Much of the credit of the affair will be due to Philip Halzell, who has been unwearied in his efforts, and has spared neither pains or expenses in getting up the decorations for the building. With praiseworthy spirit, the members of Fire Company, No. 1, have thrown their contributions into a common fund for a central display to which they invite all our people. The entire expense of the affair being borne by the members individually. It is hoped that fine weather will crown it with success, and that no untoward accident will occur to mar the festivities. The fireworks were purchased by the committee yesterday, and are of the finest kind.

The public schools of Bristol have their picnic in Tomlinson's woods today.

James Bruden has just finished a comfortable residence on Pond street.

The four new houses of Charles Banes on Penn street are rapidly approaching completion.

The directors of the Farmers' National Bank will meet for discount on Wednesday, July 5th.

The meeting of tobacco growers which was to have been held last Saturday, at the Manor school house, has been postponed until after harvesting is over.

The "Pope Catlin" now makes regular trips between Philadelphia and Trenton, Charles H. Fenton as captain, J. S. Ludlam, pilot, and Harry Baker, clerk, all of whom are Bristolians.

The America Hose Co., No. 2, will raise their new flag pole at seven o'clock this evening. The pole will be 87 feet high, and was presented to the company by the Messrs. Tomlinson, and was grown on the old home-stand—which has been in the Tomlinson family for 180 years.

While the steamboat "Columbia" was leaving the wharf yesterday afternoon, the stern line parted, and came back on the boat with such force as to knock down a young man from Philadelphia, who was hit in the head by it. He remained senseless during the trip down. There were two physicians on board who gave him all the assistance in their power.

Harry Davidson, better known as the hermit "Buffalo Bill," who lives on the land which is termed the disputed territory, was the victim of an assault and battery, last Sunday.

PROSPECTVILLE—The teachers of Jarretstown and vicinity met Prof. Rambo, their competent and esteemed superintendent, in a friendly mental contest on Monday last. It is needless to say that the professor came off victorious although the teachers held their own until the last. The old teachers were generally reapointed.

DAVISVILLE—On Saturday last, Mr. Abraham Lukens of this place was very badly bruised and injured by a fall from his wagon in the streets of Philadelphia. It seems that while driving along at a pretty good gait, the neck yoke became separated from the tongue of the wagon, and the horse suddenly started off. Mr. Lukens handed the lines to his son Harry, and attempted to jump to the ground, with the idea that they could be more easily managed and checked. Instead of

SYNOPSIS

The loss of the family fortune did not phase Ann Delafield, just nineteen and the youngest of three daughters. Now that her banker father had failed and was only earning $60 a week in the reorganized company, she was not going to sit idly by, but would get a position. Her sisters, Bernice and Claire, twenty-one and twenty-two, respectively, just laughed. And Mother Delafield always got a convenient heart attack when anything went wrong. Freddy Brandon, an irresponsible artist and Bernice's heart-throb, arrives with news of the opening of a new supper-club called "The Laughing Pig." "Get me a job there," Bernice pleaded. "Couldn't I be a barmaid or something?" So Bernice goes off to the club with Freddy. Claire, a bridge fiend, says any money she earns will come from that source. Her present bridge partner is Captain de Freyn, a questionable character though persona grata on Park Avenue. With a letter of introduction from Thomas F. Barclay, one of the owners of Barclay & Weiss, Ann buoyantly goes into that department store in search of work. She forgets all about the letter until after Paul Bradley, the merchandize manager, employs her as "comparison shopper" at $18 a week. "I'm glad I engaged you without the letter because I prefer to use hunches," he tells her. Ann is greatly attracted to the handsome, young executive.

CHAPTER V

Brenda Selz, the dark, good-looking buyer in the Gift Shop, had been in love with Paul Bradley for a number of years.

Not that he encouraged her. Her invitations to intimate little dinners in her apartment had been politely but firmly declined by him. Definitely he did not believe in mixing business with social relations, and so far as the latter could be avoided, and most certainly never with the women executives and employees in the store.

But Brenda was the aggressive, go-get-it type, and at twenty-eight years of age she knew what she wanted. Innumerable conferences with Paul Bradley over a long period had drawn them closer together, she considered. In a great store, everyone working there knows everyone else's business, by a kind of grapevine telegraph. The very walls have ears. Believing in the mighty power of suggestion, Brenda was not averse to subtly letting it be known that one of these days, there might be an interesting announcement concerning herself and the handsome merchandise manager.

On this morning of late October, when she saw him step out of the elevator to the main floor with a smartly attired young girl who might well have sat for a picture entitled: "The Promise of Spring," her face clouded.

For the merchandise manager looked gay, attentive. Shaken out of his protective armour as the burst of a bulb in April sunshine, or chrysalis into butterfly, or what have you?

He came directly towards Brenda with the young girl.

"This is Miss Ann Delafield who has joined us as a comparison shopper, Miss Selz. We must prove her originality. I rely on you to give her pointers." His voice, thought Brenda, had a luring quality as he turned his handsome gaze on the new arrival.

Assuming false sweetness, Brenda murmured that she would be delighted.

But when he had gone, her stare, sharp as a gimlet, flicked Ann from shoe to skirt. It seemed to say: "Here's a new adversary!" though what Brenda did say was that she supposed the new-comer was full of high-falootin' ideas, but the only thing that counted in this game was Profit!

"You have a long way to go, Miss Delafield. A hard road." She added tartly: "You understand that Mr. Bradley is starting you practically at the bottom?"

"A comparison-shopper—" began Ann.

"We call it a girl-spy"—with a wry smile. "You run from store to store, finding if they're underselling us. It's practically leg-work."

"Cat!" thought Ann. "The Park Avenue crowd has nothing on a department store when it comes to jealousy!"

"I'm delighted to begin at the bottom, and I'm very grateful to Mr. Bradley," said Ann.

"You should be. It's his creative policy, his brains and power that are responsible for the success of the organization. But don't get away with the idea that he's easy to please, for he isn't. And don't for a minute think that you can vamp him, and get ahead on your looks. Just because he's given you a chance doesn't mean—"

"I had a letter of introduction

It was adequate, light-weighted, compact, pretty and low-priced.

The smaller package contained twin bracelets "pour la jeune fille," each consisting of a carved crystal plaque two inches square, united to three rows of gaily-colored metal beads.

"I ought to take them to Miss Selz in the Gift Shop, since Mr. Bradley introduced me there?" thought Ann, a little chagrined.

Or she could take them to him direct? Hadn't he said so during their brief but satisfactory interview in his office?

"Diplomacy is needed, young woman!" Ann sternly said herself. Much as she would have loved a second chat with the handsome merchandise manager, wouldn't it be better policy to play up to the buyer of the Gift Shop?

But Brenda Selz had gone to lunch, she was informed.

"Cat," thought Ann. "The Park Avenue crowd has nothing on a department store when it comes to jealousy."

from Mr. Thomas F. Barclay, one of the owners of this store," Ann interrupted, nettled. "I happened to go to boarding-school in Paris with one of his granddaughters, a chum of mine. But as a matter of fact I was engaged to work here without even presenting it."

This was a natural but scarcely tactful speech, considering the person to whom it was addressed had the larger part of her education in the teeming sidewalks of the Ghetto.

There was a moment's pause before Brenda said sharply: "We don't play favorites, Miss Delafield, no matter what your background."

With a hot flush, Ann recollected Paul Bradley's similar injunction, and his phrase: "One can't bring one's elegance into a department store." She was silent.

Fifteen minutes later, complete with cash for buying purposes, she was hurrying up the Avenue.

It was half past twelve when Ann, full of enthusiasm, returned to the store. In one hour and a half, she had visited six shops, and now carried two packages. A monogrammed pouch-bag, marvelously fitted with cigarette case, lighter, chain purse, mirror, powder-puff, lipstick, rouge, tiny jar of cleansing cream with the necessary tissues, comb, pencil and pad, and a separate compartment for papers, or passport if one were travelling.

They Are Scheduled for Movie Stardom in 1938

Six of the more outstanding young newcomers to Hollywood who appear slated for stardom in 1938 are shown above. Each scored a considerable success in 1937 and have more important parts coming their way in 1938. Mary Maguire is Australia's first contribution to Hollywood. Priscilla Lane is the blond half of the singing Lane sisters of radio and vaudeville fame. Olympe Bradna hails from Paris and is one of a family of circus performers. Rita Johnson is one of those considered for the role played by the late Jean Harlow in "Saratoga." Marjorie Weaver and Andrea Leeds, the latter a Los Angeles high school girl who clicked overnight, have both come through their first tests with flying colors and are expected to give some of the veterans real competition in 1938.

WOULD YOU BUY IT AGAIN?

All merchants—nearly everybody who makes a living by selling something—can be divided into two distinct groups:

GROUP ONE: The merchant whose goods give so little value that he, like the old-time vendor of gold-bricks, cannot expect "repeat" orders. He must make all his profit from the first (and only) sale. Then he must seek buyers not yet familiar with his goods or reputation.

GROUP TWO: The merchant whose goods are sold in the hope of winning the purchaser's continued patronage. He can expect only a moderate profit. Thus, one sale per person is not enough. Each article must be good enough to make the buyer want to buy it again.

The merchants who advertise in this paper belong in Group Two. They could not stay in business unless they earned "repeat" orders—unless they gave you honest value for every dollar you spend with them.

That is why each article they sell you must be so thoroughly satisfactory that you would later answer "yes" to this, the most important question a merchant can ask a customer: "Would you buy it again?"

President. Not only was the control he sought denied him but his prestige suffered through a defeat from a Congress in which he had a four-to-one party majority. While no one thinks that before the disclosures of the Pittsburgh "Post-Gazette" Mr. Roosevelt knew that Mr. Black had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan, he hardly could have failed to have known he had been elected by Klan support, because that fact had been widely proclaimed at the time. And, of course, he knew before Mr. Black was confirmed that the latter was accused of Klan membership on the Senate floor. It seemed clear that the Black appointment was made in a vindictive spirit and with the idea of humiliating the Court and forcing a revolting Senate to take a man it did not like and did not want.

SINCE THEN in a series of decisions, culminating in the one delivered by Justice Sutherland himself the day before his announcement sustaining PWA loans to municipalities for lighting plants, the court has upheld much New Deal legislation. In none of these favoring opinions has Mr. Black's been the deciding voice, but they certainly leave the President with little to complain of. Freed then, of any recent reason for rancor and with his defeat nearly a year old, Mr. Roosevelt ought to be able to consider Mr. Sutherland's successor far more calmly than he did Justice VanDevanter's. Naturally, it is to be expected that he will appoint a New Dealer—but so long as he names one whose character, temperament, training and experience equip him to sit on the bench, it is unreasonable as well as futile to protest. The thing to be feared is an appointee, named without regard for his qualifications, who will lower the dignity of the court and detract from the esteem in which it is held by the people. Having made one such appointment, while smarting under defeat, it is not likely Mr. Roosevelt will make another like it now. If nothing else, his self-interest will impel him to a more worthy choice.

THE PRESIDENT

has not been happy in his judicial appointments either to the Supreme Court or to the lower ones. The Sutherland retirement gives him a chance to redeem himself and serve the country, too. Incidentally, it must be a rather rueful reflection for him to realize how completely unnecessary his whole court fight really was—how easily, if he had taken the advice of his friends and waited, he could have spared himself much damage and attained his "objectives" without striking a blow.

JOHNNY PASTOR TO BID FOR RING LAURELS

Johnny Pastor, rising Hightstown middleweight, will make a definite bid for ring laurels when he steps through the ropes at the Trenton Arena tonight. His opponent will be Young Terry, the veteran Trenton Buzzsaw, and the match will be by far the most important of Pastor's career.

Pastor's rise has been little short of phenomenal. Following several knockout victories in Trenton preliminary bouts, he was matched with Stanley Pyontek in the windup of Promoter Sammy Perro's next-to-last 1937 fight show. Pastor proceeded to win the decision over Pyontek, flooring the East Trenton rubber mill worker for a nine-count during the course of his triumph.

The victory over Pyontek placed Pastor squarely in line for a crack at Terry, and Promoter Perro—eager to test the seriousness of Terry's comeback plans as well as to try Pastor out under real fire—was quick to sign the match.

Larry Mangine, classy Trenton lightweight, will fight Mickey Duca, of Pauleboro, N. J., conqueror of Trenton's Georgie Levy, in the eight-round semi-windup to the Terry-Pastor scrap.

Six-rounders on the Arena show will pit Ralph Ivins, Jamesburg heavyweight, against Leo Brown, of Allentown, Pa., and Arthur Kelly, Trenton Negro middleweight, against Larry Scalone, of Elizabeth. An opening four-rounder will bring together Dufford Reed, ex-Mercer County amateur welterweight champion, and Lou Tomsa, of Manville. The first bout will start at 8:30. Tickets are on sale at the Arena daily.

LENNY DEVER LEAVES ON BOXING TOUR

Lenny Dever, local bantamweight champ, has left on a boxing tour that will carry him as far as the West Coast.

Dever, who already handed in his amateur card, had six professional fights, winning five and dropping a decision. Dever will be remembered by his great amateur showings in Bristol and Philadelphia.

He will return sometime about Easter.

PICARD'S TITLE TO BE AT STAKE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 10.—(INS)—Henry Picard, ace golf professional of Charleston, S. C., will defend his title in the fourth annual National Amateur-Professional Best Ball Match Play Championship, which will be contested again over St. Augustine Links, March 16 to 20. His entry for the 1938 event has been received by the tournament directors.

Picard has chosen Frank Ford, Charleston amateur, to be his partner for the second time in this winter classic. This pair was victorious here last season over a field that included the outstanding professionals and a number of leading amateurs of the country. Picard and Ford defeated Jimmy Hines, Garden City, N. Y., professional, and Mark Stuart, New York amateur, 4 and 3, in a thrilling 36 hole final.

A total of $3,000 in prize money will again be distributed in the coming Amateur-Professional Championship, with the winning professional receiving top award of $1,000. Special prizes will be given to the amateur members of the winning and runner-up teams, as well as for the losing semi-finalists.

The brilliant array of title-holders who have participated in this winter event since its inauguration includes the former U. S. champions, Johnny Farrell, Willis Macfarlane, Tony Manero, Billy Burke and Sam Parks; Sarazen, American open winner in both 1922 and 1932, and a former British Open champion; the present U. S. title-holder, Ralph Guldahl, and the P. G. A. champions, Johnny Revolta and Paul Runyan, as well as Densmore Shute, 1936 and 1937 P. G. A. champion and holder of the British Open title in 1933.

Another champion who will return to St. Augustine to defend his title this winter is Charles Whitehead, New Jersey star, who recently filed his entry for the eleventh annual National Championship of Golf Club Champions, which is scheduled for St. Augustine Links, February 14 to 19.

A double-winner in this outstanding amateur tournament, Whitehead will be aiming for a third victory and permanent possession of the Walter J. Travis Memorial Trophy. He played in the Amateur-Professional tournament here last season when he was paired with Paul Runyan. They reached the second round where they were eliminated by the eventual winners, Picard and Ford.

PREDICT SHATTERING OF SPORTS ATTENDANCE

By Pat Robinson
(N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(INS)—There is nothing like a little off-hand soothing to get a fellow in shape for a New Year. Wherefore, without any hesitancy whatever, we hereby predict 1938 will see all attendance marks shattered in every branch of sport and new records written into the books by athletes of all kinds.

This forecasting business is a cinch. Why, just to show how easy it is, I hereby predict there will be not fewer than 37 male and 42 female swimming records broken. Those mermen and mermaids never fail us. At least, they haven't yet.

But let's forget the sure-thing bets like the swimmers and get right down to some tough forecasting. Let's take the fight game, where the chances for going out on a limb are simply beautiful.

I hereby predict Max Baer will knock out Joe Louis and regain the heavyweight title. Henry Armstrong will knock out Lou Ambers to win the lightweight crown and at the same time will renounce his featherweight throne.

John Henry Lewis will forewear the light heavyweight ranks because of increasing weight and Freddy Steele will make at least two successful defenses of his middleweight honors. Barney Ross will insist on getting $50,000 guarantee to defend his welter throne. Mike Jacobs will give it to him and then Ceferino Garcia will beat Ross.

The Yanks will nose out the Tigers again for the American League pennant and then trim the Cubs in the world series. The Cubs, of course, will by that time be under the guidance of Tony Lazzeri. Bill Terry will have got sore at 32 more sports writers.

Bill McKee will have surprised the universe and aroused the good burghers of Cincinnati no end by having the Reds contending for the pennant part of fifth. The Phils, of course, will battle the Dodgers for the cellar berth and next October Connie Mack will hopefully announce he is going to rebuild for 1939.

Shucks, those were easy. Now here's a good one. Menow will win the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont and War Admiral, the four year old king, will not meet him in a match race.

And, in passing, Greyhound will trot a mile in 1:55 for a new world record.

Sammy Sneed will lead for two rounds of the P. G. A. championship and then blow while Harry Cooper comes onto win. Henry Picard will win the open.

We will lose the Davis cup and the Germans, led by Baron von Cramm, will win it. Von Cramm will win the national singles.

Harvard and Fordham will rule the eastern seaboard in football. Louisiana State will be the south's best bet. T. C. U. will be tops in the southwest. California will rule the west and Notre Dame and Minnesota will be the king-pins in the mid-west. Notre Dame will wallop both Army and Navy and Navy will beat Army with a rain-soaked crowd of 102,384 looking on in Philadelphia. Fordham again will have its old slogan "from Rose Hill to Rose Bowl" on tap but California, after being coldly spurned by the Ivy colleges and the Big Ten, will invite Louisiana State.

Bill Sefton or George Varoff will clear 15 feet in the pole vault and Don Lash will run a mile in 4:05 1/4.

And, despite all the record breaking, a million old dodoes will still insist the athletes were better in the old days.

Chesterfield Features PLEASURE

Every cigarette features something...

Chesterfield features the one thing that really counts... pleasure. It all comes down to this: Chesterfields are made of mild ripe tobaccos... rolled in pure cigarette paper... the best that money can buy.

That's why Chesterfield's milder better taste will give you more pleasure.
